Management Services Journal

The Institute of Management Services is the principal body in the UK concerned with the promotion, practice and development of the range of methodologies and techniques for the improvement of productivity, quality and sustainability.

Management Services Journal is a quarterly publication distributed exclusively to members of the Institute of Management Services (IMS). The magazine publishes empirical and theoretical articles dealing with methodologies and techniques relevant to productivity and quality improvement in British businesses and the public sector.

Management Services Journal provides an excellent opportunity to promote products, services and company news.
